

The Discovery Center

Have you ever wanted to know what it takes to be an astronaut? Have you ever wondered what's up in space?

Well, you should go to the Discovery Center. It is a place where you can reach for the stars. You and your family can learn so much! You can explore exhibits like...“The Science on a Sphere.” It is literally a giant ball that shows a lot of things you can learn about our solar system, or just about good old planet Earth!

Or, if you like spacecraft, you can take a look inside a space shuttle at the space lab. They also have models of rockets that NASA has launched in the past.

There is so much you can learn and do. If you want more information, go to discoverspace.org. Hope to see you soon!
