

The Cliff Dwellings

If you want to see the famous Cliff Dwellings of the Anasazi Indians, but cannot get to Mesa Verde, Colorado, why not go to a fantastic replica in Manitou Springs.

You can go inside the dwellings and explore the different rooms. There is also a museum where you can see all sorts of artifacts, learn the history of the dwellings, and learn how the natives lived their lives.

The architecture and floor plan of these dwellings is so impressive. What is even more amazing is that the original cliff dwellings are approximately 1,000 years old!

It took three years (from 1904 to 1907) to relocate these structures. It should be on your short-list for a fun and educational visit. If you want a ton of information on this spectacular place, go to www.cliffdwellingsmuseum.com.
